UPDATED: FRIDAY

DATE: Oct 21, 2016

Weather Synopsis

Typhoon Haima made landfall earlier this afternoon, and has since rapidly weakened. Fortunately, the typhoon did end up staying just to the east of Foshan. The typhoon will gradually move away through the rest of the afternoon and through the overnight, resulting in both winds and rain chances decreasing substantially. After the rain moves off, clouds will gradually decrease through the rest of the overnight hours. Tomorrow should be partly cloudy with a slight chance of a shower or storm. Similar conditions are expected on Sunday.
